

RACEDAY SCENARIO SUMMARY

South Africa has a vibrant culture of road events, including the Comrades Marathon, Cape Town Cycle Tour, and numerous community activities. However, many events are still managed inefficiently using paper and spreadsheets, causing challenges for organizers and participants. To address this, RaceDay is being developed as a comprehensive web-based event management system for the South African running, walking, and cycling community.

This platform enables event organizers to manage events and participant results, while participants can access event information, track performance, and prepare with live updates. The project will culminate in a fully containerized, cloud-aware, API-driven platform, emulating industry-standard software development practices in sports technology.
